Manuscript Information:

TITLE: Civics and Pancasila Education as Preventive Strategies against Radicalism among University Students

ABSTRACT: The primary objective of this study is to examine a wide range of issues, not simply to prevent religious radicalism but also to promote love for the Indonesian country and state through civic education. Preventing radicalisation at the university level requires integrated and comprehensive strategies involving several different parties, both within and outside the campus. Interviews and structured questionnaires were used to collect data, in addition to relevant literature studies from many sources such as scientific journals, books, and other scientific publications. Preventing radicalism among youth and university students through civic education requires tailored approaches to address their specific needs and vulnerabilities. This includes strengthening their understanding of religion and diversity, developing critical thinking skills, introducing radical ideologies and their dangers, encouraging active participation in democratic life, collaborating with parents and the community, and training civic education lecturers and facilitators. Civic education can play an important role in preventing radicalism among students and facilitating the formation of a generation that is tolerant, inclusive, and capable of thinking critically.

Subject: Re: Apply to get a reviewer certificate

Palu, July 25 2024

To the Honorable Editor-in-Chief of Cogent Social Science

First, I convey warm and happy greetings.

I want to apply to get a reviewer certificate for this journal. In June 2024, I reviewed the manuscript "Civics and Pancasila Education as Preventive Strategies against Radicalism among University Students" with ID QASS-2024-1089. As an academic actively studying and researching radicalism, I have sufficient knowledge and experience in the peer review process of scientific articles.

Over the last few years, I have reviewed several leading journals. I have reviewed the article according to the provisions properly with the standards set by each journal. I always provide constructive and timely feedback to writers.

In addition, I actively follow the latest developments in related research fields and always try to improve my ability to evaluate the quality of scientific articles. My experience and competence will benefit the peer review process in this journal.

Therefore, I hope you can consider my application to obtain a certificate as a reviewer for this journal. I am deeply passionate and enthusiastic about actively contributing to maintaining the quality and integrity of this journal.

Thank you for your valuable time and thoughtful consideration.

Yours faithfully,

Reviewer,

Saepudin Mashuri
